FlexTime Manager for Student Choice and Needs

FlexTime Manager provides students with unprecedented voice and choice!

Students enjoy flexible, personalized choices by being able to register their activity days in advance or on the spot

Learning is fun when students have more control of their schedule — increases student participation

"Students can develop their own schedules and decide their study path. Provides students ownership of their learning by allowing them to select from the activities in their schedule. It is a great way to implement Universal Design for Learning (UDL) since it allows students the choice to present their work."
— California instructional technology facilitator

"Great tool for ensuring students' needs are being met in an easy way for scheduling purposes."
— Florida tech specialist

"This product allows students to have more 'voice and choice,' and also helps teachers organize and manage flexible periods such as intervention blocks. It empowers students to have control over their education."
—Texas elementary school teacher

FlexTime Manager enables on-the-go-customization and ownership of scheduling as students choose from teacher-scheduled activities, and the simple app interface provides the ability to quickly make changes

"I like the idea of giving students the ability to customize their schedules themselves. The idea of empowering students with the ability to metacognitively think about their schedule is interesting to me."
— California public charter school teacher

"This product makes it easy to navigate and customize schedules for each student, including those with disabilities."
— Florida ESE program specialist

Students get to take ownership of their learning

while adopting time management skills and practicing accountability

"Helps students with time management and prioritization so that they can better excel in their academics, and alleviates conflict in class over assignment due dates."
— Florida high school teacher

Meets scheduling needs easily and flexibly for students of all ability levels

FlexTime Manager provides effortless management of thousands of students without sacrificing customization and a user-friendly interface

"I would recommend this product because it can be used campus-wide and allows for differentiation for all levels of student ability."
— California instructional technology facilitator

"Useful for students with disabilities, for specialized scheduling."
— Florida ESE program specialist

"FlexTime Manager is a great way to manage movement and choice, as well as signing up students for mandatory sessions that would provide support and instruction where needed. It's a great management tool for flexible time, ensures that students get help when/where needed, and provides an opportunity to appeal to creative interests for rotations."
— Texas middle school librarian

Promotes a more open relationship between students and teachers

Facilitates communication regarding activity types and choices, making it easier for teachers to ensure that students' needs are accommodated in a comfortable way

"As someone focusing on students with Individual Education Plans (IEPs) I find this tool helpful in the scheduling of students for time with services identified on their IEP such as: resource room for targeted area, occupational therapy, physical therapy, speech/language therapy, etc."
— Florida tech specialist

"Allows for simple activity choices among students, while showing teachers where students are in terms of activity and production."
— California instructional technology facilitator
